

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION

The International application was filed and published in the Japanese language. A translation of the International application has been submitted herewith, and is further amended by the submission of a substitute specification herein. In the attached substitute specification, paragraph numbering and minor wording changes have been added to the literal translation of the International application, which serves as the basis from which all amendments are made. No new matter has been added to the specification.

The translation of the abstract is the final page of the substitute specification.